

K-12 Mathematics Curriculum Standards:
What should students learn and when should they learn it?
A National Conference
February 5-6, 2007

Agenda for Webcast

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 2007

Eastern Time	Event	Associated Documents
8:30-8:45 am	Welcome: Glenda Lappan, Center for the Study of Mathematics Curriculum (CSMC) Cora Marrett, Assistant Director of Education and Human Resources, National Science Foundation
8:45-9:45 am	Plenary Session: Mathematics Curriculum Standards: A Path Toward Coherence Jere Confrey, Washington University - St. Louis
10:15-11:45 am	Secondary Mathematics Expectations (Achieve), Laura Slover and Kaye Forgiore College Board Standards for College Success: Mathematics and Statistics (College Board), John Dossey and Katherine Halvorsen Session Presider : Ira Papick, University of Missouri and CSMC	Achieve: http://www.achieve.org/node/479 College Board: http://www.collegeboard.com/about/association/academic/academic.html
1:00-2:30 pm	Curriculum Focal Points: A Quest for Coherence (NCTM), Francis (Skip) Fennell and Janie Schielack Guidelines for Assessment and Instruction in Statistics Education (GAISE) Report (American Statistical Association), Christine Franklin and Gary Kader Session Presider : Kathryn Chval, University of Missouri and CSMC	NCTM: http://www.nctm.org/focalpoints/ ASA: http://www.amstat.org/education/gaise/
3:00-4:00 pm	Plenary Session: Common Themes and Notable Differences across Mathematics Curriculum Documents Chris Hirsch, Western Michigan University and CSMC
4:15-5:15 pm	Panel: Discussion of Curriculum Recommendations by Achieve, ASA, the College Board, and NCTM Panelists: Roxy Peck (ASA), Skip Fennell (NCTM), John Dossey (College Board), Laura Slover (Achieve) Moderator: Iris Weiss, Horizon Research, Inc. and CSMC

TUESDAY FEBRUARY 6, 2007

Eastern Time	Event
8:30-9:45 am	Panel: How can/should/will the new curriculum recommendations be used? Panelists: Everly Broadway (North Carolina Department of Public Instruction); Karen Usiskin (Pearson Scott Foresman Publishing Company); Alfinio Flores (Arizona State University); Sherri Miller (ACT) Moderator: Diane Briars (Pittsburgh, PA)
10:00-11:00 am	Panel: What are the implications of the new curriculum recommendations for post-secondary education and employment? Panelists: Bernard Madison (MAA); William Goldman (AMS); Susan Traiman (Business Roundtable) Moderator: Richard Scheaffer (Chair of CBMS, past-president of ASA)
11:30 am - 12:45 pm	Panel: Is consensus on national curriculum standards necessary for advancing student learning? Panelists: Diane Schaefer (Rhode Island Department of Education and President of ASSM); Susan Jo Russell (TERC); Bob Borst (Columbia MO Public Schools); Bill Schmidt (Michigan State University) Moderator: Randy Charles (San Jose, CA)
12:45-1:30 pm	Comments: Joan Ferrini-Mundy, National Science Foundation Closing remarks: Michael Cohen (Achieve) and Glenda Lappan (Michigan State University and CSMC)